Scenic Rivers Hearings Set

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The long battle to get workable scenic rivers legislation has started all over again.

Sen. Richard Southern, D-Monroe City, chairman, said his special legislative committee wants to act as a catalyst to reconcile opposing groups and come up with an acceptable proposal for the 1972 legislature.

A hearing was set for June 2 in Jefferson City to hear Ed Green of Licking, president of the Show-Me Heritage Association, a group of Ozark landowners' organizations.

A week later, on June 9, the committee will hear Roger Taylor of St. Charles, leader of a scenic rivers initiative petition drive which was abandoned last week. Taylor's automobile was bombed at his home in the heat of the campaign but no charges have been filed. Preliminary testimony on Wednesday indicated the landowners are still stirred up.

O.C. Allen of Dora, president of the Ozark Landowners Association, urged the committee to delay any action until tempers cool and he was joined by Rep. John T. Russell, R-Lebanon, who said feelings are still running strong.

"No matter what kind of a law you pass," Russell said, "the people who are going to make it work are the people along the rivers."

Allen said he wouldn't want to be a conservation agent in the hills now because "he might be short-lived."

He said farmers blame the Conservation Commission for initiative campaign. But Carl R. Noren, state conservation director, emphasized that the commission had nothing to do with the proposal and didn't know about it until the news appeared in the papers.

Rep. Corley Thompson, R-Webster Groves, said he thought any shooting or bombings along the rivers would cause people of the state to "rise up in indignation."

Southern deplored any talk of violence. He said the committee wants to hear all sides of the controversy and try to come up with a compromise proposal acceptable to all.

Rep. John A. Grollner, D-Richmond Heights, said the time to save the scenic rivers is now because no one can tell what an urban dominated legislature might do in 1973 after redistricting on the basis of the 1970 census.

A NEW ASPHALT TOP was poured on Center Street today. The old brick pavement had served the driving public for more than half a century in Sikeston. This picture was taken at the intersection of New Madrid and Center Street. Center Street is one of two streets, remaining that were built with bricks. Front Street will be refinished next year, according to Wilson McMulling, contractor.

Administration Seeks Cambodian Backing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration sent a trio of top officials to Capitol Hill today in an effort to persuade Republican senators to oppose efforts to restrict American involvement in Cambodia.

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird, White House national security aide Henry Kissinger and Undersecretary of State Elliot Richardson met with GOP senators at a closed session.

Meanwhile, Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said maintenance of South Vietnamese troops in Cambodia after President Nixon's June 30 deadline would mean the United States would remain indirectly involved there.

The GOP conference and a closed session of the Foreign Relations Committee with Ellsworth Bunker, U.S. ambassador to Vietnam, held principal attention as senators grappled with the Cambodian question.

Rep. Robert Pierce, R-Cape Girardeau, said the House was just "perpetuating confusion" with its action in pushing the bill through in its present form.

But the Democrats said there was no confusion. Rep. Earl Sponsler, D-Cabool, said the Republicans were engaging in "pure hypocrisy" and "there's a little politicking going on here."

Rep. James I. Spainhower, D-Marshall, the House education chairman, accused the Republicans of trying to lead Americans down a blind alley. He said if the people weren't confused before, they are now with the Republican arguments.

Then the Democratic majority voted to block further debate and the bill was passed 148-4. Twice the Republicans were refused an opportunity to explain their position.

Aside from that argument there was little difficulty in clearing the $1.4 billion-plus in budget bills. They now go to the Senate where members said several million dollars will have to be cut out if the budget is brought back within the limits of anticipated revenue.

To get to the budget bills the House leadership shelved temporarily the debate on a proposed drug and narcotics control bill. Two amendments were added to the bill before the House quit Wednesday.

One amendment would make a first conviction for sale of drugs or narcotics subject to a 40-year sentence. But the convicted person could reduce that sentence to as little as a parole term if he informed on his source of supply.

Another would permanently bar from employment in any Missouri school a teacher or school employee found to have "encouraged, promoted or enticed" students into the use of drugs.

The original bill was a model

Battlefield Deaths Climb Highest in Eight Months

SAIGON (AP) — Fighting in Cambodia and South Vietnam boosted American battlefield deaths last week to their highest level in more than eight months and South Vietnamese losses to their second highest in the war, official casualty summaries disclosed today.

The U.S. Command said 168 Americans were killed in action in Southeast Asia last week. It gave no breakdown for Cambodia and South Vietnamese operations.

The command also reported that through Wednesday 110 U.S. troops have been killed in Cambodian operations since they were launched April 29 to destroy North Vietnamese and Viet Cong base camps and supply depots used for staging attacks into South Vietnam.

South Vietnamese military headquarters reported that 863 government troops were killed in action last week.

Headquarters said nearly 400 South Vietnamese troops have been killed in Cambodia in the past two weeks, but like the U.S. Command gave no breakdown for the past week.

The U.S. and South Vietnamese commands claimed that allied forces killed 5,898 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops last week, the highest enemy toll in more than 14 months.

The commands said 6,212 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops have been killed during the 16-day offensive into Cambodian territory.

The 168 Americans killed last week was the highest toll since the week ending last Aug. 30 when 185 U.S. troops died on Vietnam battlefields.

South Vietnamese battlefield deaths were the heaviest since the first week of the Communist command's Tet offensive in February 1968 when 1,152 government troops were killed.

The North Vietnamese and Viet Cong losses were the highest reported since another Tet offensive in the last week of February 1969 when 6,813 enemy troops were killed.

The casualty summaries also reported 1,001 Americans wounded last week, the highest in five weeks, and 2,259 South Vietnamese soldiers wounded, the highest since the 1968 Tet offensive.

After getting the House to approve the interim committee, Cantrell set out to defeat bills to extend the merit system to the Missouri Public Service Commission and the State Division of Liquor Control.

Earlier, Rep. E. J. Cantrell, D-Overland, sponsored a proposal to study Missouri's merit system. He said the committee would consider what he called failures in the present merit system operations as much as the possibility of extending it to agencies now hiring workers on a politically partisan basis.

After getting the House to approve the interim committee, Cantrell set out to defeat bills to extend the merit system to the Missouri Public Service Commission and the State Division of Liquor Control.

Child Missing

At Holcomb

HOLCOMB — Terry Wayne Easley, five-year-old son of Richard Easley, route one, Holcomb, has been missing from his home since 6:30 p.m. Wednesday.

He was last seen walking south on Highway 153 in Dunklin County. He was wearing a shirt with a red front and blue back. The child also is reported to be wearing yellow trousers and blue shoes.

Any information about the child's whereabouts should be reported to the Highway Patrol or local authorities.

Students Battle Police 2 Hours on Ohio Campus

Ohio University students broke windows and set small fires on campus and in downtown Athens for two hours early today after shouting down an attempt by university President Claude W. Sowle to address a protest rally.

Police battled the rock-throwing demonstrators with tear gas in the latest outbreak of violence during a nationwide wave of student strikes and demonstrations protesting the Indochina war and the killing of four Kent State University students.

Up to 3,000 students at the 18,000-student Ohio University had demonstrated peacefully until Wednesday when Sowle suspended seven students whom he accused, without elaboration, of being threats to the security of the university. "I am dedicated to the idea that this simply can't be another Kent State or Ohio State" where students closed their universities, Sowle said.

During the disorders, eight students were arrested and an auxiliary police officer was injured by a rock thrown through a window of his cruiser.

The student strike information center at Brandeis University in Waltham, Mass., reported 267 colleges and universities were on strikes of indefinite length. The center reported 286 schools on strike Tuesday.

A nationwide sampling showed 14 schools officially closed.

The White House announced that President Nixon's daughter

Julie and her husband, David Eisenhower, have decided not to attend their graduation exercises at Smith and Amherst colleges. Antiwar protests have been going on at both schools.

President and Mrs. Nixon had indicated they wanted to attend Julie's graduation from Smith, scheduled May 29.

The two young people decided not to return to their campuses at all. A spokesman said both have good enough grades to receive diplomas without further exams.

Water Heater Ignites Gas

CHARLESTON — The fire Department was called to the home of John Henry Davis, 207 W. Ada about 9 p.m. Wednesday. Fumes from a can of gasoline stored in the utility room were ignited by a water heater. Minor damage was reported to the interior.

Davis was burned on his right arm when he carried the gasoline can outside.

Regarding Lime Pollution

CHARLESTON — A delegation of property owners from Third Street met with the city council Tuesday night to discuss the problem of lime blowing when trucks are dumping or loading lime from a stockpile at the corner of Third Street and Iron Bank Road, belonging to Terrell Lime Co.

City Attorney W. Clifton Banta advised if the lime is creating a nuisance they can request a hearing before the Board of Adjustments.

A motion by Councilman Sam Story was approved to have the residents call City Manager Richard Martin the next time the lime is blowing, have him witness it. He would then request a hearing before the Board of Adjustments.

The board approved a low bid of 13.75 cents per gallon from the M. F. A. Oil Co. for gasoline used by the city. The board also accepted a bid of $7.59 per gallon from Phelan-Faust Paints for painting the swimming pool. The council was advised that the company claims they average two years on pool paint.

Following a motion by Story, the board adopted the following dump fee schedule for the city dump; car with vehicle sticker-free; car without vehicle sticker-$50; one-half ton pickup-$1; over one-half ton and up to two and one-half ton-$150; truck over two and one-half tons, $250; two wheel trailer, $1; junk cars, $10 and trash collectors, $30 per year.

All fees are to be collected and turned over to the city collector daily.

Joseph Reeves met with the Council requesting permission to use the city surveyor to finish the engineering layout for drainage and curb location in the Reeves sub-division. The board agreed to let Willis Downs, city surveyor, handle the layout, with his time to be reimbursed to the city at a cost of $10 per hour.

City Manager Martin presented the board a proposal changing admission costs to the swimming pool as follows: under six with adult to be admitted free; seventeen and under, $50; eighteen and over, $75; season ticket for seventeen and under, $20; season ticket eighteen and over, $30.

A request from the Charleston R-1 School District for use of the municipal pool for the Federal Program for Underprivileged Children (FOCUS) was approved. The School District will pay the city $1,500 and the salary of two life guards, plus provide adult supervisors. Approximately four to five hundred children will use the pool during the summer from 8 a.m. to noon, Monday through Friday. The children will be bused from the Lincoln School to the pool and back.

Manager Martin is to check on prices charged for private parties at the pool last year and have a proposed charge for this year ready for the next meeting of the Council.

Minutes of the previous meeting and expenditures for the month of April were read and approved.

The council recommended the yellow lines on Cypress and Commercial Streets be repainted and feels that the policeman on meter patrol should keep a closer watch on improper parking in the meter spaces.

Councilman R. T. Yates reported he had received several requests to have a policeman drive by the schools at dismissal time. In other action, the council authorized Manager Martin to have the Chinese Elm trees in the Rowling Park sprayed and start a replacement program, cutting down a few of the Elm and replacing with Pin Oak. Martin is to contact Pedro Simmons about getting lights put up at the basketball court south of Lincoln School.

Following the Council meeting, the Liquor Committee met to review license renewals.

The following license were renewed: Lon and Alvina Stader - package liquor; Wilbur French - 5% beer; and I. O. Jensen - package liquor and beer.

Agnew Reveals

'Middle Class' Background

NEW YORK (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, in a 90-minute interview by David Frost broadcast Wednesday, added no new fuel to fires, amplified his position on some issues and more than anything else revealed something of himself.

Frost, showing intensive preparation for the session taped last week in Hollywood, started the program by asking Agnew about his boyhood, his relationship with his parents and with his own children.

These led to smooth transitions to the vice president's explanation in detail of some of his attitudes, particularly in connection with youthful dissent.

Agnew said he grew up in a "typical middle-class suburban surroundings, liked sports, had a 'stern father' whose reprimands he feared although he never received corporal punishment.

Girl Missing

City police have been notified that Debbie Hastings, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Hastings, left home on a bicycle about 7 a.m. and is yet to return. She was wearing a pink and white striped dress.

Purse Lost

Shirley Coleman, route three, Sikeston, reported to police the loss of her purse, containing $60, a drivers license and papers, fell out of her car between Miner and Hart's Bakery.

Asian Ethnic Influences

Civilizations in Southeast Asian countries date back thousands of years, and over the centuries migration of people from one area to another have left apparently confusing population patterns throughout the region.

Just about half of the 2,000-year history of Vietnam has been spent fighting for independence from China. Historical tradition first finds the Vietnamese as a tribal people inhabiting the Red River delta in what now is North Vietnam.

The Chinese, during the Han dynasty in 111 A. D., began pressing south into Tonkin, the northern part of Vietnam. The tribal Vietnamese migrated southward under the Chinese pressure. When the kingdom of Nam Viet, as it was called then, broke loose of Chinese rule in 939, the groundwork for Vietnamese expansion to the south had been established. By the end of the 15th century, the Vietnamese had conquered the kingdom of Chama, in Annam, now the central part of the two Vietnams, and Cochinchina, now the southern part of Vietnam, which formerly was Cambodian territory.

Chinese influence persisted, however, and the Vietnamese language and art forms today reveal many Chinese elements.

The population of South Vietnam, some 17 million, is about 90 per cent ethnic Vietnamese. Most of the rest are of Chinese origin, and there are about 600,000 primitive, seminomadic Monteguard tribesmen in many tribes in the mountains and high plateaus. Also, there are some 500,000 Vietnamese of Cambodian origin, mostly farmers living near the Cambodian border. French colonial influence started in the mid-19th century, when French forces took over what is now Da Nang and spread their rule north to the Chinese border and south to the Gulf of Siam. French influence waned during the Japanese occupation in 1940 and French control after World War II ended with the defeat of French forces at Dien Bien Phu in North Vietnam in 1954.

Cambodia also was dominated by the French from the middle of the 19th century to the 1950s, and it is largely a result of the French domination that close to half a million Vietnamese lived inside Cambodia, at least until recently when many fled to Vietnam after hundreds and perhaps thousands were massacred by Cambodian army troops.

The French brought loyal Vietnamese with them when they expanded westward from the South China Sea into Cambodia for use as administrators in the new territory and later as workers on French-owned rubber plantations.

About half the approximately 2.5 million people in Laos are ethnically Lao. The Lao are the descendants of the Tai, a people who migrated from southwest China, mainly in the 13th century. In the north of Laos are found mountain tribes of two linguistic strains in addition to Tai. There are the Meo and Yao tribes of Chinese origin and the Akah and Lahu tribes of Tibetan and Burman origin. In addition, there are several tribes of Indonesian and Malay background in the central and southern parts of Laos, and influential if small minorities of Vietnamese and Chinese and small groups of Cambodians, Indians and Pakistanis. As a result of the highly diversified cultures, unification was hindered until a kingdom was established in the mid-14th century. That kingdom included much of what is today northeast Thailand and the southern portion of China's Yunnan province. But by the 18th century, Siam and Vietnam had begun their competition of chunks of Laotian soil, and in the 19th century the Thai people of Siam gained control over much of Laos until they were thrown out by the French in 1903.

Thailand, whose name means "Free Nation," is the only Southeast Asian country never to have been dominated by a European power. The ancestors of the present-day Thai people started migrating from southern China more than 1,000 years ago, and the migration was accelerated greatly when the Mongols overran the area in the 13th century. Toward the end of the 18th century, Burmese armies overwhelmed the Thai kingdom, but the Thais drove them out during the first third of the 19th century, just before the British took over Burma in 1832.

Most of Thailand's 34 million people are of Thai stock, although four million ethnic Chinese live in urban areas and one million Malay-speaking Moslems dwell in the southern provinces near the border with Malaysia. About 300,000 people of various hill tribes live in the northern part of the country.

Parimutuel Betting Drive Opens

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A drive to petition a change in the Missouri Constitution to permit parimutuel horse betting got under way today, sponsored by the Missouri Horse Breeders Association.

At a news conference chairman Jack Hackley said the association hopes to obtain enough signatures to put the issue on the November ballot.

Hackley noted a similar drive in Kansas City secured enough petitions to complete three districts in less than two weeks.

"The people of Missouri have shown that they want a new source of revenue to support schools, not an increase in existing taxes," Hackley said.

Farmer Indicted by Grand Jury

ST. LOUIS (AP)—An indictment charging George Darnell, a former Arab, Mo., farmer, with submitting false affidavits to obtain loans from the Commodity Credit Corp. was returned Wednesday by a Federal Grand Jury.

The indictment alleges that Darnell pledged about 22,000 bushels of corn and soybeans in applications for loans totaling $31,000 between Nov. 7 and Nov. 10, 1968.

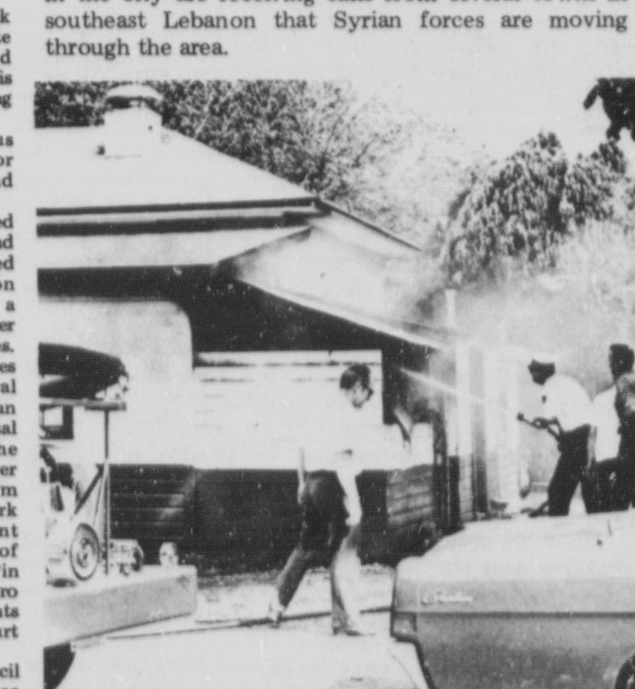

Darnell is accused of selling the mortgaged grain between Oct. 15, 1968, and April 8, 1969.

WATCH THOSE TORNADOES!

This is tornado time- and although the chances of a "twister" hitting any given home or location are statistically remote, it's best to be familiar with a few simple safety rules - just in case!

Thanks to our national "storm alert" system these days, warnings of violent thunderstorms are flashed well in advance. But sometimes a storm can blow up with little warning. Tornado weather signs are: a hot, sticky day, with southerly winds, and a dark, threatening sky. The thunderstorm clouds appear topsy-turvy, bulging down instead of up. Such days frequently occur without tornadoes. The "twister" itself is easily recognized by the funnel-shaped cloud, spinning rapidly and extending toward the earth from the base of a thundercloud.

For advance safety precautions: keep your TV or transistor radio on, set to listen for the Weather Bureau warnings. An approaching tornado can also be detected by its sound; a noise similar to a giant blowtorch, which can be heard up to 25 miles away. Close up, it roars like a jet aircraft.

Best protection: a storm cellar or Air Raid Shelter. (remember them?) If in open country; a ditch, gully, hole; if there is no time to escape, lay absolutely flat. If you can escape, move at right angles to the tornado path, since they usually move straight ahead at about 25 to 35 miles per hour.

In town, duck into the nearest strong building- stay away from windows. At home; get into the basement, on the side toward the tornado. If no basement, take cover under heavy furniture against inside walls. Opening doors and windows on the side of the house away from direction of tornado may help reduce damage.

If in school; on receiving a tornado warning, post a look-out to keep advised of the tomadoe's approach. If the building is of strong construction, stay inside, up against an inside wall, on a lower floor. Keep away from large auditoriums or gymnasiums with big roofs! In rural schools without strongly reinforced construction, teachers should remove the students to a ravine or ditch if storm shelters are not available.

Mr. J. W. McAfee, retired chairman of the Union Electric Company, St. Louis, commented, "... In this country we have always proceeded on he principle that incentives are the best way -- and I'm sure they still are-- but I wonder how much the incentive to produce is being undermined by high taxes. This is one of the areas where the voice of business should make itself heard."

The Colonel said: "A woman who is a good bluffer can scare a man to death."

COME FLY WITH ME

The ideal airline stewardess is an always attractive, always well - groomed, always smiling nursemaid, comforter, waitress, babysitter and companion for both professional and amateur jet-setters. She is paid a starting salary of about $400 a month for about 75 hours flying time and one week a month "on reserve." Usually the price of her uniforms and often the cleaning bills are deducted from her salary. Not very lucrative, but it is the alleged glamor rather than the monetary benefits that attract most airline hostesses. This glamor consists of travel benefits which include two free trips a year to any area on the line's route, half price for other trips, and the hope of meeting interesting, and preferably male, passengers.

The first airline stewardess service began just 40 years ago, on May 15, 1930, when eight girls hosted a 13-stop United Air Lines flight from San Francisco to Chicago. All stewardesses then had to be registered nurses not over 25 years old, 115 pounds or 5 feet 4 inches. In the early 1930s, they were paid about $125 a month for 100 hours flying time. In addition to serving coffee and sandwiches, the girls helped fuel the plane and push it into the hangar. Early stewardesses were given some advice from the flight crew, but picked up most of their information from on-the-job experience.

Today's airline hostesses attend stewardess school for about 5 1/2 weeks to learn good grooming, poise, theory of flight, airline procedures and passenger psychology. There are now about 50,000 stewardesses in the world. With the advent of the jumbo jets and the 12 hostesses needed on each, the airlines anticipate a shortage of applicants. Many airlines have dropped the minimum age from 21 to 19, eased height and weight requirements, and allowed married, widowed or divorced women without children to serve. The average stewardess stays at her job approximately 18 months and spends 60 per cent of her time preparing and serving food, walks about 17 miles on a Chicago to San Francisco round trip flight, and is able to spend only 23 seconds with each passenger on an 85-minute flight with 122 aboard. It's hardly surprising that most stewardesses find marriage preferable.

It is only a question of time until the man who depends on luck will be depending on kin.

This is hard to understand: the landlord who abuses his tenants most loses the least rent.

Tired Thumb. In Central Falls, R.I., a young woman explained why she had turned in a false alarm: she was on a country road, with no prospect of getting a lift home, figured the fire department would give her a ride.

SMASH-UP TESTS AID AUTOMOTIVE SAFETY

Any "dummy" who wants to know what a smash-up feels like might try applying to one of Detroit's automobile manufacturers or to the Federal Highway Administration - both of whom are engaged in an experimental crash program in the name of automotive safety.

The auto manufacturer conducts dozens of impact tests on components and actually crash-tests seven to 10 cars every week with 165-pound dummies representing male adults and smaller dummies representing female adults and children. Sophisticated electronic equipment, including recorders, are attached to both vehicles and dummies to measure "G" force loads at impact.

Objective of the program is to determine how cars and trucks can be made safer and more controllable and to determine how best to protect drivers and passengers from injury when thrown against interior fixtures.

The Federal Highway Administration is also testing a number of impact devices, including 55-gallon drums - said to be able to dissipate the force of a swift moving vehicle just before it hits an immovable object.

An official of the Federal Highway Administration says crash tests indicate the drums may be inexpensive safety devices which can be placed next to obstacles such as bridge piers and other types of abutments. They can be stored in highway maintenance yards for quick replacement. New drums cost from $5 to $7. Second-hand ones cost about $2.

The official is not concerned about the built-in lack of sophistication these drums seem to possess. "They appear to have a good potential for saving lives and lessening damage to motor vehicles," he says. "It makes no difference how unsophisticated they look - as long as they keep motorists and passengers alive."

Ben Franklin said it: "If you have time, don't wait for time."

Test Case. In Merced, Calif., after due investigation, the cause of the fire that broke out in Mater Misericordiae Hospital was found to be the pipe wrench left lying on electric wires by workmen who had installed the hospital's automatic fire sprinkling system.

This is where we came in.

Pogonotrophy worked against Populist statesmen in 1895, when Republican antagonists in the Nebraska legislature yanked jaws out of joint by jerking the flowing whiskers. Populists considered them "sacred badges," and regarded "well razored mugs" and neatly clipped locks with suspicion.

This might be pertinent today when judges and other condemn males for cultivating hirsute adornment.

It might be dangerous to judge on that basis alone, for every picture yet painted of God, Moses, Abraham, patriarchs and prophets, shows them with long hair and luxuriant whiskers.

Buford Ayers contends that most husbands prefer their wives wear their dresses a little longer - about two years longer.

If a man's wife doesn't like his folks, he is gradually cut loose from them, but no struggle ever loosens him from his wife's folks, no matter how he feels.

After a woman has cleaned her husband's desk, he begins to look around for things to miss.

When young people get married, they are inclined to consider it remarkable that they were happy during their honeymoon. This is not remarkable: all young people are happy then. The happiness- testing things of married life come along later.

If you must criticize a man, do it to his enemies and not his friends. A good man would rather be criticized himself than to hear his friends abused in his presence.

To err is universal but to err and throw the blame or someone else... That's human!

The Department of Transportation's 1968 Report to Congress on "Alcohol and Highway Safety" concluded that "alcohol has been the largest single factor leading to fatal crashes."

NEW YORK (AP) - Some of the people who get the most applause in this world do the least good.

They just happened to be standing in the right place when the spotlight came on. Or they saw it that they were.

From your own experience don't you know any number of people who are nowhere to be seen when hard work is to be done, but when the gravy train comes by they emerge out of nowhere and are first to hop aboard, holding a ready ladle in each hand?

Sometime, somehow, this injustice should be righted and credit given where credit is due, proper honor accorded to those deserving of recognition but now nameless to renown.

Here, for example, are a few unsung heroes worthy of a medal or at least a mention in dispatches:

Anybody who starts to write a memo and then decides not to.

Whoever buys the first round.

Secretaries who are homely but can spell.

Resort owners who serve meals free any day that it rains.

Any bus driver willing to change a $5 bill without adopting the air of a martyr.

had an easy life as a kid. Any movie producer who makes a dirty movie but is too honest to claim it has an important social message bearing on the quandary of our times.

Boy Scouts who pass up old ladies in order to help old men cross the street.

Hat check girls who'll only accept a dime for taking charge of your bonnet because that's all it really worth.

An after-dinner speaker able to go through his entire speech without once saying, "And that reminds me of a story I-"

Any wife who can remain totally silent until her husband has finished drinking his first cup of morning coffee.

A professional football or baseball player who uses that greasy kid stuff on his hair and stubbornly continues to because he likes it.

Any hospital where you can stay overnight without being given a bill that looks like you'd been on a weekend binge in Las Vegas.

A defeated political candidate who acknowledges he'd probably have lost anyway even if he had had all the money he wanted to spend on the campaign.

Yes, these are a few of the obscure heroes of our time. But before we can honor them we first have to find them. There lies the problem.

Presidential Proclamation.
SAN YSIDRO FIESTA. May
15. Taos Pueblo, NM.

...When you are out in the rain, a raincoat will keep your clothes dry, except for the bottom of your trouser legs. Finger press the damp part by applying pressure with the thumb and forefinger - squeezing out the moisture and squeezing in the rain. Clothes do not wrinkle as much from wear as from humidity, regardless of the season. So give your good suit a vigorous shake, when you take it off, to readjust the fibers and shed wrinkles.

ONE REASON TO DRESS UP ON CAMPUS
Despite what happened in the last several school semesters, there is no truth to the report that required apparel for returning students will be battle uniforms. In fact, dissident students are likely to be better dressed - especially the one who will be "on camera" - with the eyes of the world looking on through the medium of television.

A woman had just returned from the hairdresser. Two of her neighbors were discussing the results.

"What do you think of it?" asked one.
"Well, confidentially, it looks like her parole came through just as the warden pulled the switch."

EXTRA VALUE
The great strength of the United States today rests on the immense productivity of our economic system which creates the jobs and the high standards of living, as well as the opportunities which the individual has to pursue his fortunes in practically any line of endeavor. But, the mass production system that creates the material abundance of the United States could never have evolved and could not exist today unless we also had a matching system of distribution and sales.

Advertising and promotion provide the motive power of our market system. They are the sign of healthy competition, and it is this sharp competition for the customer's favor that creates the pressure to improve the quality of existing products and create new and better ones. It provides the built-in consumer protection characteristic of the freemarket.

Competition is not always on the basis of price, nor should it be. Quality, effectiveness, design, prestige and other factors of extra value may enter into the picture. In addition to selling his merchandise, the retailer has the job of selling his store as a good place to shop - a store which sells at competitive prices the merchandise available everywhere else and also offers a little something extra in the way of convenience or value. Because of their wide public appeal, trading stamps are one of the "extra values" that retailers have used for decades to attract customers. Consumer protectors have often criticized trading stamps and other methods of advertising and promotion on the grounds that they serve no useful purpose and merely add to the costs of merchandise to the consumer.

The fact is that no retailer would use stamps or other promotional devices unless they paid for themselves by increasing his volume of sales and thereby lowering his costs. This means lower, not higher prices, for the consumer. Competition in the free market assures this result, and the consumer can ask for no better protection price-wise than this.

My mother had 17 children and we put her on a pedestal... we had to do something to keep her away from dad.

The beautiful foreign movie star was undergoing an examination by a noted gynecologist.
As he poked and prodded, he muttered, "Ever have a check-up there?"
"No," she replied. "Just a Pole and a few Hungarians!"

Golf enthusiast wife to husband: "Don't you think it's time we told Junior all about the birdies and the bogies?"

Save your money. It may be worth something someday.

During a holiday sales rush, a furniture company president received a phone call at 3 a.m.
"Good morning," bubbled the bright voice at the other end. "This is Mrs. Jones. You don't know me, but I just wanted to say how much I like the table I purchased at your store two weeks ago."

The president, annoyed, tried to remain calm, and replied: "I'm thrilled that you like it, madam; but why do you have to call me in the middle of the night to tell me?"
"Because," answered Mrs. Jones, ewe "ly, "your truck just delivered it."

A doctor who was a jealous husband, had just finished performing an operation, at the hospital. Returning home that night he found his wife half undressed.

"I have a feeling there's another man in this house," he ranted.
"There is not," she replied. "I don't believe it, I'll just have a look for myself."

He ran in and out of every room in the house, but couldn't find anyone.
"Satisfied now?" asked the wife.

"I guess so," he muttered. "Well I may as well get washed before dinner."

When he entered the bathroom the first thing he noticed was that the shower curtain was completely closed. It was one of those old-fashioned affairs in the middle of the tub with the curtain forming a full circle. Out of curiosity the medical man jerked the curtain open - revealing a man inside. Before the enraged husband had a chance to utter a word, the fellow closed the curtain, exclaiming:
"Stop that! I haven't finished voting yet!"

We know of an overweight playboy who is unhappy about losing 105 pounds last month. She was a beautiful blond.

H.L. Hunt Says
PROTECTION AGAINST SABOTAGE
In late January of this year, the House of Representatives approved the Defense Facilities and Industrial Security Act by the overwhelming vote of 274 to 65. This legislation is now before the Senate, which should approve it.

This bill is designed to protect our defense plants against sabotage. Last year more than 100 cases of sabotage in defense plants were reported. Many revolutionary groups have explicitly announced their plans to commit acts of sabotage against U.S. defense industries.

Congressman William Scherle of Iowa, one of the sponsors of this Act, pointed out in a speech on the House floor that there are "numerous subversive and extremist organizations that are prepared to overthrow our government by force and violence." It is the responsibility of Congress, he added, "to provide the means to defend out country from the grave threat posed by the subversive elements in our midst."

As examples of this threat, Congressman Scherle pointed to the S.D.S. national council meeting in Colorado, where detailed directions were given for making "fire- bombs, booby traps, incendiary time- bombs, and mines of all kinds." He also pointed out that the Communist Party "has recently reorganized its plans to infiltrate industry."

Bombings, sabotage and other terrorist acts have increased sharply in the U.S. in recent months as the New Left proves that it is deadly serious in its pledge to "begin the revolution." FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover has called for stronger laws to protect our country against this revolutionary violence and has specifically endorsed the Defense Facilities and Industrial Security Act. Police also killed: Hundreds of cops slain in Decade; 41 patrolmen now assaulted daily. Washington, D.C.: - Always I insist police are people. Some are dead people - shot, stomped, brick-battered, knifed, sliced or slashed by machetes.

Since 1967, 557 cops were killed on duty. This is the count of J. Edgar Hoover, who also reports that in the first two months of this year 9 cops have been killed and 2,394 badly injured in 57 major cities and communities. Some were killed by criminals - 64 in calendar year '68 and 73 in '69. Some were slain and hundreds maimed by dissenting revolutionists.

The police bury their dead and mourn quietly. There's a small gathering, a widow, a shield as a souvenir and a replacement. The next day the squad rolls out to the spot - and time - picked by the rioters. Sometimes the cops are mounted. Sometimes the kids break bottles and slash the thoroughbred so he roars. But the cop soothes him, the troop reherds and the rioters are contained.

"We take a beating," says ex-patrolman John Casese, now organizing a union, the International Brotherhood of Police Officers, "but we've never killed a youngster in one of those melees. This is a time for every American regardless of his political beliefs, of his reaction to current crises, to ponder first principles. Without civil peace all other governmental or orderly duty will cease to function. National Guardsmen - some of the street, the campus, the parade ground are no longer in and clothing workers, drugstore the public domain when they are clerks or salesmen - it is seized illegally and the fact that traumatically nerve shattering those who do the seizing are As John Casese put it, the academicians and sometimes cops, had they been at Kent, our own sons and daughters does would not have retreated. They not alter the basic premise.

"Some measures can be taken. Police can be better heads, battered a few buttocks, trained and, in fact, already have broken some ribs or legs. special units which know how to handle crowds and minimize they never have been jittery, violence. The (National) guard never have killed demonstrators, also has special units and can never have done more than slug step up the training of more men it out. And the record shows for this kind of special duty, that always the police injures. This is fundamental. Tragedies outnumbered the demonstrators' such as Kent can be avoided casualties.

We'll study all this when our police union's first convention opens on May 25 in Denver, alienated and alienate. They hear Already we have departments from 343 communities with the young National Guardsmen 73,398 policemen. We hope our combined knowledge will be able to offer some solution for all sides, dissenters, the public, chasm, earthquake-like, swiftly and those dissented against."

Another police scientist, pointing to reports offered by FBI Chief Hoover, said it is not easy to maintain the "cool" on strike - or sick-out - happy, his side of the barricades. Not they say, what the hell. So in when the Black Panthers, for example, openly call for the threatening to take 80 per cent killing of cops. In Panthers of the force off the streets school, children, "toddlers" Mr. because of a contract dispute. Hoover calls them, do their exercises to the accompaniment There have been strikes in other the hill - if you don't kill him. No one gains - not the Panthers will."

And they are equipped to do dissenters, not the public, not so, Mr. Hoover reported the cops. Only the latter-day recently. A national survey social revolutionists who no reveals that during the past two longer are a passing Weatherman machine guns, sawed-off Police are people. Alive or shotguns, rifles and hand dead they wear a badge of grenades along with thousands courage. Why mock them? Why of rounds of ammunition. Also estrange them?

47 Molotov cocktails, homemade bombs, gun powder and an accumulation of bayonets, swords and machetes. In New York, just the other day a Patrolman Glassman was cut to ribbons by three machete-wielding assailants.

In addition, Panther literature cautions the brothers not to use small arms but to get themselves a high-powered rifle with "enough killing force to knock the pig out of his shoes at a distance of three-or-more blocks... The only good pig is a dead pig."

One cop, helplessly lying wounded on the sidewalk, was shot to death at pointblank range by a shotgun blast by a Panther. During 1970's first two months cops were assaulted at the rate of 41 daily.

And in Los Angeles, on Dec. 8, 1969, three police officers and two Panthers were wounded during a four-hour gun shootout at Black Panther Party headquarters. These Panthers were heavily armed. Their building was fortified with sandbags. The doors were reinforced. There were gunpots like some old-fashioned fort. Under it was a partially completed escape tunnel.

This may be today's thing right on. But the cops and the guards are dispatched to where the caches and riots are. They're told to do their "duty." This means containment. To a cool cop it may be all in a long day's duty. To hastily called up processes will cease to function. National Guardsmen - some of the street, the campus, the parade ground are no longer in and clothing workers, drugstore the public domain when they are clerks or salesmen - it is seized illegally and the fact that traumatically nerve shattering those who do the seizing are As John Casese put it, the academicians and sometimes cops, had they been at Kent, our own sons and daughters does would not have retreated. Parents who 'Try Too Hard and Care Too Much' Often Have Wrong Reasons

Dear Ann Landers: Please tell my fat sister that tasting counts. She never wants any dessert — until it comes to the table. Then her fork is in everybody's plate. She only "tastes" which, for some strange reason she doesn't consider eating. I've tried to explain that the calories don't know whether she tasted the cake of ate it outright. She does the same with pie, ice cream and candy. Another stunt of hers is to take small helpings and tells everyone she is dieting. But when she clears the table she eats whatever is left. Last night it was mashed potatoes, rolls, spinach ring, corn soufflé and chocolate pit.

If people really want to lose weight why do they lie to themselves? Who are they kidding? Comment, please. — Fatsie's Skinny Sister

Dear Ann Landers: The flesh is weak — and when there's a lot of it, it's usually weaker. Eating is one of the major pleasures of life. It's not easy to pass up tempting foods or quite eating when you're still hungry.

Your sister is fighting a tough battle. You could help her by showing a little compassion, Skinny.

Dear Ann Landers: I was intrigued by the letter from "Henry's Bad Girl." She was the one who said wife spanking had kept their marriage together. Her father used to spank her when she misbehaved. He gave the hairbrush to his son-in-law as a wedding present. She closed her letter by saying after the spankings they always made love and forgot what they were fighting about.

Your answer was a gem. You said, "The arrangement sounds ideal for a couple of nuts like you and Henry. The rocks in your head match the holes in his."

But I was disappointed that you failed to delve deeper into the problem and acknowledge the partnership between the sadist and the masochist. Your warning that she might change her tune when the spankings turned into beatings was uncharacteristically naive. Let me assure you, Ann Landers, she will enjoy the beatings just as she now enjoys the spankings. A woman who feels the need to be punished (masochist) invariably finds a man who will cheerfully oblige (sadist.) Please tell it like it is. — Pittsburgher

Dear Pitt: Thanks for putting a little flesh on my bony comment. It was, as you pointed out, inadequate. And now a word to women who enjoy being spanked and men who enjoy spanking them I hope you kooks find each other and leave the balanced people alone.

Dear Ann Landers: I was fascinated by the letter from the self-pitying mother who said her only mistake was "caring too much and trying too hard." I'm sure many parents who read those lines identified with her.

My questions are these: Caring about whom? Trying to do what? Too many parents say that care — and they do. But they care about the wrong things — like "what will the neighbors say?" and, "how will it look?" Some kids don't want to go to college but they are pressured into going — for the wrong reasons.

As for "trying too hard," many status-conscious, upper-middle-class parents try too hard to mold their children into what THEY wanted to be, but couldn't. Today's youth has different goals and different values, and those differences are what created the Gap we've been hearing so much about. — Just Me souper beef supper.

Dear Just: You make sense. I buy it.

A super helping of nutrition in a tasty, inexpensive main-dish casserole — that's the idea that won Mrs. Karen Fulk the $1000 Nutrition Award in Pillsbury's recent Bake-Off. Just one serving of Souper Beef Supper plus a green salad gives a nutritious meal — for only 27 cents!

Normally, a panel of food experts judge all Bake-Off recipes. But this Nutrition Award, which is new this year, was selected by the computer. The first judging phase excluded all of the 100 final recipes which are not reasonably well-balanced in the protein, fat and carbohydrate categories. In the final screening, the computer scored Souper Beef Supper as the winner — because it is low in fat and carbohydrate, but high in protein.

In other words, this main-dish casserole contains three of the Basic Four Food groups: Meat Group from the ground beef; Dairy Products from the milk and eggs; Cereal Group from the pancake mix. When served with a green salad, Souper Beef Supper gives a well-balanced nutritious dinner — for only 27 cents per serving. (That's based on one serving — one-sixth of the casserole.)

Focusing on nutrition is nothing new for Mrs. Fulk. She is a dietetics graduate and thoroughly enjoys experimenting with recipes — especially for the Bake-Off!

For a tasty, nutritious supper why not try Mrs. Fulk's $1000 winning recipe?

What's The Difference?

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON Associated Press Sports Writer

The difference between 1-for-27 Wednesday—Ernie Banks' two-out single in the eighth inning their only hit—and came out on the short end of a 4-0 score to the New York Mets.

The Chicago Cubs went 1-for-29, but that hit was a grand slam homer that powered the Pirates past the St. Louis Cardinals and Bob Gibson 5-1.

In other National League action, Tito Fuentes drove in all

SHS Baseball Team Hopes to End Drought

Its been 19 years since a Sikeston high school baseball team has been in the finals the state tournament, and five years since its made an appearance in the semi-finals.

But, for their opponent tomorrow afternoon at Ste. Genevieve, its not even been a year since its been in the finals, as it placed second to Kansas City Oak Park in last year's event.

The Bulldogs will try to reach the semi-finals tomorrow as it faces St. Louis Lafayette at 4 p.m. in a sectional match at Ste. Genevieve, and then will try for the finals at Springfield next week.

Lafayette, rated as the best hitting team in the St. Louis area, has six players off last season's starting squad back and flexed its muscles Tuesday with a 16-0 romp of Hillsboro in its regional contest at Festus.

The Lancers, which is Lafayette's nickname, defeated North Pemiscot of Wardell 4-1 in semi-final round last year, setting the Mustangs down on one hit.

But all the raves about the Lancers hitting and its second place finish in the state last season "doesn't spook" coach N. P. McDaniel and the 1970 Bulldog baseball team.

"We realize they must be good to be where they're at," McDaniel commented. "But, our last two opponents (Southland and Cape Central) compare favorably to them, according to our scouting reports," McDaniel noted.

McDaniel noted that the Lancers take big advantage of other teams errors, but explained that his team's defense is strong and emphasized the teams desire and slogan "BUST A GUT" as a big plus in its favor.

The Bulldogs hope to end the drought by winning three more games, starting tomorrow.

LANSING, MICHIGAN — The Michigan Department of Natural Resources is prepared to arrest fishermen in the St. Clair River on Lake St. Clair and those arrested could be fined $100 and be sentenced to 90 days in jail. The reason: fish in those waters are contaminated by mercury from pesticides and are unsafe to eat.

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — The University of Colorado football squad Thursday selected a pair of senior linemen—center Don Popplewell and middle linebacker Phil Irwin—as 1970 co-captains.

Parma Baseball Program Set

PARMA— City baseball commissioner, Randall Ramsey, announced today that suits will be issued to the Little Leaguers today at 7 p.m. and to Musial Leaguers Friday at 7 p.m.

Ramsey noted that insurance, which will be $3 this season, is to be paid before the season opener on May 22nd.

The commissioner urged that all parents take an interest in the program this season and assist in the operation of the concession stand.

An organizational meeting for Women and Girls softball and Men and Boys softball will be held at the high school field Saturday at 2 p.m.

QUICK QUIZ

Q—Which U.S. service academy formally opened its doors on Independence Day?

A—The U.S. Military Academy at West Point, with the arrival of the first 10 cadets on July 4, 1802.

Q—In Christian art, what does the dove symbolize?

A—It is the emblem of the Holy Spirit and ancient symbol of innocence.

Q—Who is the only U.S. president born west of the Rocky Mountains?

A—Richard M. Nixon, born in California.

Q—What tree produces the hardest wood?

A—The desert ironwood of the Southwest, which has wood as heavy as stone that blunts tools and can hardly be cut with a saw.

Q—What is a crabapple?

A—It is the original, wild tree. Our native crabapples are stunted and produce small, sour apples better for jelly than for eating.

Q—What chemical is used to produce fumed oak?

A—Oak is given a weathered appearance by exposure to fumes of ammonia from uncorked cans, being first given a coat of filler.

mixed vocal group and vice class officer. His grade point average is 64.6. He plans to attend the University of Columbia this fall.

About Our Schools

By Lynn Twitty

The comparative cost of education between schools in Missouri, for that matter throughout the nation, is easy to fix. All Missouri's schools are required to use the same accounting system, to make the same reports and to include the same items in figuring the cost per pupil for operation and maintenance of the year's school program. Most of the schools throughout the country use the same accounting and reporting system so valid national comparisons are relatively easy, too at this time we don't have these figures.

The cost per pupil in average daily attendance for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1969, in Missouri, was $627.75. For the AAA schools, the classification which our school has, the average per pupil cost was $646.18. The cost in this school district for the same period was $573.87, or $72.31 less than the average for schools of our classification.

The meaning of this, of course, is that we simply did not have as much money to spend, on the average, for each student as did the average school district in Missouri. Consequently, unless we worked harder to utilize the dollars which we did have, our students would have suffered more than they did because of the shortage of the funds required to buy the things and services that make up the educational program. Because of better utilization of the budget, by the Board of Education, and the willingness and ability of faculty members to do a better-than-average job, our overall pupil achievement was at least average or above. We establish the achievement level of our students through the standardized testing program which we maintain. These tests, which are graded by machines, are given to hundreds of thousands of students throughout the country thus establishing averages, or norms, for purposes of comparison. The fact that our students achieve at a normal rate and that our Board had $72.31 less to spend per student than is the average, would seem to logically prove that our community is getting more than their money's worth in educational achievement.

How long that we continue to get average achievement with "below average dollars," is highly questionable. Personally, we don't think we can much longer. There is certainly no virtue in spending less per student than other schools, but simply a matter of not having the money to spend.

We doubt that a parent with a sick child does much "bargain hunting" when he selects a doctor. We don't think that they, or we, should slight their children's education if we can find the money. Not having it, of course, as in our case, is another matter and we are confident that the Board will continue to make very effort to "get the biggest bang out of the buck" for those dollars which we do have available for schooling our youngsters.

Some examples of per pupil costs in five neighboring schools, more fortunate in that they have a larger tax base than we do, the following are from the official state report. They are given for comparative purposes: Cape Girardeau, $637.77; Charleston, $682.01; New Madrid R-1, $696.64; East Prairie, $589.56; Poplar Bluff, $577.49 and Sikeston, $573.87.

Due to the closing of the St. Francis Xavier Parochial School, our next year's school enrollment will likely go up by about 60-70 pupils.

And probably we'll have another 100-150 as a result of the growth of the community if it continues as it has during the past year. We gained about 100-125 in enrollment this year, over last, and next year in all, we may have 175-200 more students than we have this year.

We will be crowded in some areas. Classroom enrollments all over the system will probably go up. Due to a restricted budget, there is little we can do about it.

Our greatest pressure will be at Middle School where we are already crowded. One of the solutions would be to bus some groups of Middle School youngsters to Morehouse for either certain periods of the day or for an all-day session. We have usable space there, well set up and so organized that we could provide a program for those children who would be moved which would be at least as good as the one at the Sikeston Middle School. In some respects, the Morehouse facilities are better than at Sikeston.

We believe this could be done without too much disruption, in fact probably resulting in an advantage, or better educational program for both the children who would be moved, and also for those who would remain in a less crowded situation. This plan would seem to be our most logical solution at the present time. We think that the already over-crowded situation at the Middle School will handicap education for all Middle School youngsters, unless some action is taken.

There is, of course, another solution, but that would involve another building program for more educational space, and we do not think that is a good solution in these inflationary, high building cost, high interest rate times, when some other temporary and reasonable solution can be made. More about this when the Board and administration have time to prepare more specific plans.

He who sows bountifully will also reap bountifully.—(II Cor. 9:6).

We have been given an inner power of thought that can literally transform our life. But thought must be concentrated to be effective. By concentrating wholly on good, we find good wherever we look. Thoughts and attitudes of success and prosperity persistently held produce abundance. Concentrating on happier, more harmonious ways of doing things will help us find more joy in living.

10 Troops Attend Camporee

ORAN — The Okeechobee Boy Scout district camporee held here brought out 10 Scout troops with 23 patrols, who competed in scouting skills.

Guests were the Webelo dens from pack 41 and 43, Sikeston; pack 33, Charleston; and pack 37 East Prairie.

Troops represented were 43, 44 and 41, all of Sikeston; troops 32 and 33, Charleston; No. 25, Benton; troop 49, Morehouse; troop 42, Bertrand, and troop 37, East Prairie.

A campfire climaxed the event, with skit performances and Indian dancing by troop 44 of Sikeston.

Eight camporee awards were given, 14 merit and honor awards. Morehouse Mohawk patrol of troop 49 received the honor award.

Students at Kalani High School, Honolulu, sold $8,000 worth of barbecued chicken to defray expenses of sending the school band to the Sun and Sugar Bowl football games.

Curators Okay Prelim Plans For Rolla Center

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)—The Board of Curators Friday approved preliminary plans for a new university center building at the University of Missouri at Rolla.

The plans call for first stage construction at an estimated cost of $2,000,000.

The curators also awarded a $134,093 contract for remodeling Parker Hall at Rolla. The job went to the Magei Construction Co. of Rolla. Space formerly used for library purposes will be converted into offices.

Preliminary plans were approved for construction of a laboratory animals' facilities building on the Columbia campus. The building, to cost $275,000, will allow the university to meet federal regulations regarding humane and safe housing and treatment of laboratory animals.

A $143,579 contract for alterations to Benton Hall on the St. Louis campus went to the J. E. Novack Construction Co., of University City. Existing physics laboratories will be converted to chemistry labs.

Dr. Norton E. Long, political scientist and expert on urban affairs, was appointed a curators professor of political science and director of the center of community and metropolitan studies at the St. Louis school. The appointment becomes effective Sept. 1. Long is now at the University of Illinois.

Campbell Girl Wins Scholarship

COLUMBIA — Miss Cindy Eberhard, Campbell; Miss Martha Winkler, Bellevue; Miss Nancy Ketchum, Route 3, St. Joseph, have been named to receive $350 E. G. Chubbier 4-H scholarships.

The awards were announced today by Arthur C. Ausherman, extension youth specialist at the University of Missouri-Columbia.

The scholarships are sponsored by the Missouri 4-H Foundation. They are based upon 4-H accomplishments, scholastic standing, and financial need, Ausherman said.

Scholarships are awarded to current or former 4-H club members who plan to enroll as freshmen in any accredited Missouri college.

Miss Eberhard, 17, has enrolled in the clothing project each of the eight years she has been a 4-H member. She has advanced to district competition in dress revue and has modeled her clothing at the Mid-South Fair, Memphis.

She is now a junior leader in the clothing project. "This has helped me to be a better citizen because I have learned of the responsibility to help others," she reported.

Miss Eberhard has served as vice president of the Glenonville 4-H Club and secretary of the Dunklin County 4-H Council.

Miss Eberhard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Eberhard, plans to become a teacher.

Two Bison Born In Kentucky

GOLDEN POND, Ky. — Two baby bison born last weekend at Land Between the Lakes symbolize the success of the national movement to conserve these majestic animals who were once an endangered species.

The young buffalo are probably the first born in this area since the early settlement of the territory between the Tennessee and Cumberland River valleys.

The herd of 19 buffalo (American Bison) was introduced to Land Between the Lakes last September when they were shipped from Theodore Roosevelt National Memorial Park near Medora, North Dakota. The buffalo, once native to this area, are located in a 100-acre pasture alongside The Trace (Tennessee 49-Kentucky 453), the major north-south highway through Land Between the Lakes.

Visitors may view the herd from any spot along the road near the former site of Model, Tennessee. As they have become accustomed to their new home the buffalo have moved from the woods and may frequently be spotted in the open pastures and near the fence.

Crises Forces Curtailment Of Cancer Research Funds

JEFFERSON CITY — The American Cancer Society, the largest private source of funds for cancer research in the United States, reports that a crisis has been developing in cancer research which is forcing curtailment—instead of expansion—in cancer research and the training of research personnel. The dollar value of approved but not funded applications in 1969 was $15,710,000, an increase of 150% over 1965. Despite a 50% increase in research expenditures between 1965 and 1969, the society still had to put aside, without funding, two out of every five applications approved for support in 1969.

During this same period Congress has consistently appropriated less than the National Cancer Institute estimated it would need for a basic program and not enough to enable it just to meet rising costs created by inflation. This has placed an additional responsibility on the American Cancer Society. The limitation in funds to finance cancer research comes at a time when researchers feel that through a greater investment, a decisive breakthrough could be near. Dr. Kenneth Endicott, past director of the National Cancer Institute, told Congress in March, 1969: "In my opinion we have in operation a system capable of solving the cancer problem."

In March, 1970, the American Cancer Society reported research grants totaling $19,650,000. In the state of Missouri, research grants in effect at the present time, total $651,502 to sixteen researchers and institutions.

On the basis of population, it is estimated that approximately 16,000 Missourians (of the nation's 625,000) will fall victim to cancer in 1970; 8,500 will die

(of the nation's 330,000) — but possibly more than 36,000 (of the nation's 1,500,000) have been cured.

Dr. Jonathan Rhoads, President of the American Cancer Society, recently commented: "Curtailment of cancer research is especially difficult to accept, at a time when previous research has brought knowledge and capability to a point where many projects are being proposed which could bring us considerably closer to our ultimate goal. It is urgent that we do everything possible to remedy this situation immediately before more serious damage is done."

Dr. Neil Berry, President of the Missouri Division of the American Cancer Society, has echoed Dr. Rhoads in an urgent plea to all Missourians to support the programs of the American Cancer Society: "Although April—cancer control month—has passed, the opportunity still exists for both volunteers and contributors to secure more funds for this year's budgeting of research, service and education. Missouri has set a goal of $1,000,000 to fight cancer in this coming year."

Edward G. Robinson has appeared in more than 100 movies.

House GOP Sets Up Task Force for Honest Elections

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The Republican minority of the Missouri House announced Friday it has established a "task force for honest elections."

The action was taken, a GOP spokesman said, because "for over 20 years Missouri has enjoyed the dubious national reputation of having one of the country's most notorious records for continuing vote irregularities."

The minority leader, Rep. R. J. King, R-Clayton, appointed Rep. M. C. Bauer, R-Bethany, to head the eight-member force.

King said the force would have the task of investigating alleged voting irregularities, educating the public about such things, recruiting and training vote canvassers and poll watchers and trying to get nonpartisan groups into the effort.

Bauer said "we intend to keep the pressure on those who would defraud honest voters on a continuing basis."

Anthony Named Chief Inspector

Aaron Anthony, Oran, has been appointed as chief inspector for the Sikeston office of the Grain Feed and Seed Division, Missouri Department of Agriculture.

Since 1961, when he was employed by the department, he has been a sample, grain inspector and warehouse examiner. He has worked for the state agency both in Kansas City and Sikeston.

Commencement At M.U. June 2

COLUMBIA — Commencement exercises closing the 1969-70 school year at the University of Missouri will take place at 6 p.m. June 2, at Memorial Stadium, Chancellor John W. Schwada announced today.

Brewer Field House will be on stand-by basis as a site in case of rain.

When they lose control drinking, they often lose control driving.

It's not hard to see how each year, problem drinkers are involved in killing at least 25,000 of us on our highways. What is hard to see is why we keep letting them.

Many problem drinkers need to be helped. But first, they need to be taken off the road. Sooner or later, it has to happen. Make it sooner. To find out what you can do, write the National Safety Council, Dept. A, 425 N. Michigan, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

New Unit Takes Some of Curse off Striping Roads

JEFFERSON CITY — dries in three minutes and new There's always been something about highway striping — especially in urban areas — that makes it about as popular as an outbreak of the plague.

The driving public has to contend with a sluggish traffic flow, jockey to change lanes and when barriers are set up and dodge traffic cones.

Highway department striping crews don't fare much better. Drivers approaching from the rear at 55-mile-per-hour freeway speed are a hazard. Freeway traffic has forced paint crews into a short day and striping operations stop before 3 p.m. to avoid the rush. And, of course, there are always drivers who cross the wet paint, track it across the freeway and virtually destroy the paint job.

The department's maintenance and traffic division now hopes to eliminate these headaches with a new striping device.

The new equipment was purchased last month and is now being given shakedown runs in the St. Louis area. Another will eventually be used in Kansas City.

The massive device has remarkable — and welcome — capabilities. It is self-contained and self-propelled. It has outriggers on both sides of the truck so it can stripe centerline and edgeline simultaneously and apply glass beads on the wet paint lines.

The $54,000 striper can put down every type of paint now on the market, including central control panel for all conventional, heated paint that painting and heat exchange is mounted on the platform. And there is even an intercom system to provide communication between the truck driver and striping operator.

Two Years Council Aid Reviewed

MALDEN — The search for economic development in the Bootheel will soon have been going on under the auspices of the Bootheel Economic Development Council two years.

In this period $6 million in Economic Development Administration projects have been funded. Almost 500,000 of this total was given as 10 percent bonus grants by the federal government to towns that were participating members of the council. The E.D.A. money assisted communities in the Bootheel in the creation of more than 1,000 jobs.

The council reports that its number one project is that of expanding and diversifying the agricultural base into vegetable production.

Pat Lea of Sikeston is chairman of the 30 member council. The council was organized in 1968 for the purpose of elevating the social and economic environment of the Bootheel.

Gov. Warren E. Hearnes has designated the council as a regional clearinghouse for federal funds.

Caruthersville Man Shot in Gun Accident

CARUTHERSVILLE — Monday morning that her Leonard E. Townsend of Caruthersville, owner of Townsend's Package Store on Fair Boulevard and Sinclair Station on Ward Avenue, suffered a serious injury to his leg Saturday night when a .25 automatic fell out of his pocket and discharged.

Mrs. Pat Townsend said had happened and called me at home." The bullet lodged in the bathroom ceiling.

Townsend was in the County Hospital. Mrs. Townsend said she didn't know if doctors were going to have to operate on his leg or not. "They are waiting to see if there has been any damage to the bone in his right leg," she explained.

Jaycees Plan July 4 Picnic At Portageville

PORTAGEVILLE — The Portageville Jaycees are making plans for their Fourth Annual July 4th Picnic and Celebration. This annual event, back years ago was one of the main attractions in Southeast Missouri. It was actually "home-coming" to many people throughout several states who had left Portageville, but still called it home.

It is the desire of the Jaycees (with help of other organizations) in the city to revitalize this annual event which has through the years contributed to the pride and progress of our city.

Chairmanship of different committees were assigned by President Bob McCrate. They are: Bob Carter (barbecue stand); Bob McCrate (prizes); Erwin Lloyd (program); Leo Duclos (finance); and what a job! Leo will greatly appreciate the cooperation of everyone on this task.

The Jaycees also discussed the possibility of promoting a dance for the night of July 4th.

A nomination report was given for election of officers which will be held Monday, May 18th. The names being placed in nomination for officers were: President, Carroll LeSieur; 1st

Vice President, Robert Hulshof; 2nd Vice President, Bob Carter; Secretary, James Blowers; Treasurer, Bob McCrate State Director, Johnnie Girvin; Director, Phil Underwood.

There were two prospective members names mentioned at the last regular meeting, and they were Pete Byrd and Jack O'Guin. There are several other young men in our city that could be, and should be members of the Portageville Jaycees. We need, and would appreciate more young men who will take time to help promote the best interests of Portageville.

Authority Named for Urban Renewal

PORTAGEVILLE — A five-member land clearance for redevelopment authority was appointed Monday by the city council.

Members named to the board are Dr. Thomas H. Barnes, chairman, Dr. James D. Grable, Dr. O. A. Huck, Hilton L. Bracey and Evans Baker.

Portageville voters approved April 7 an urban renewal proposal. The authority will name a director and hire a planning firm to survey the city for blighted or slum areas for rehabilitation.

The council, after receiving complaints minors were visiting places of business where alcohol was served passed an ordinance prohibiting persons under 21, unless accompanied by a parent or guardian, to be in a place of business where alcohol is sold or served.

Condemnation proceedings have been instituted to acquire the site for a sewage treatment plant. It is expected contracts may be made in late July or August for construction of the facility.

The council activated the city-wide mosquito spraying program to be directed by the street department.

Newly elected ward one alderman Ernie "Sonny" Moylan Jr., re-elected ward two alderman Leroy Widner and police judge Ernie Fisher were sworn into office.

New Plant

Foreman At Southwestern

George Kearby Noe, formerly of Kansas City, has been named plant foreman for Southwestern Bell Telephone Company in Sikeston.

Noel replaces Dean Williams, who has been transferred to New Madrid to serve as wire chief. Williams had been plant foreman since August, 1967.

In his new position, Noel is responsible for the installation and repair of telephone equipment.

Noel joined Southwestern Bell in Kansas City as a cable splicer's helper in July, 1957. He was named cable splicer in February, 1961. In May 1968, he became station installer, the position held when named plant foreman.

A native of Kansas City, Noel attended Washington High. He and his wife, June, have three children.

Memorial Fund For Templeton

The Wesley United Methodist Church has established the Clarence Templeton Memorial fund, the Rev. James Phifer announced today.

Council-Manager Petitions to Council

MALDEN — Petitions calling for a special election on the Council - Manager Form of City of Malden Organize Under government will be presented Monday night to the Malden R.S.Mo., Providing for the City City Council by C. L. (Val) Mitchell.

Mr. Mitchell, chairman of a steering group representing the Citizens Committee for Council-Manager Government for Malden, said today that sufficient signatures in excess of the 474 required have been secured.

"We have had excellent response to this movement without any concentrated effort on the part of those circulating the petitions," said Mitchell.

Gordon Fritz, city attorney, was asked what the next step is after the petitions are formally presented to the City Council. He said that under Missouri law the Council must call a special election within 60 days.

Scott Second From Top in April Mishaps

Scott county highway accidents were second high during April, with 69, compared to 73 in Butler county. Injured in Scott County were six with property damage of $19,250.

Injured in Butler county were 18 and one fatality, one death, while total deaths for the year is 18, and property damaged in April was $13,865.

New Madrid county there were 73 accidents, nine injuries and $16,040 property damage.

Pemiscot county had 46 accidents, with 12 injuries, three deaths, and 16 deaths for the year, and $22,645 property damage.

Never trouble trouble until trouble troubles you.

You've been following that simple rule all your life, and it hasn't failed you yet. And it works. Right?

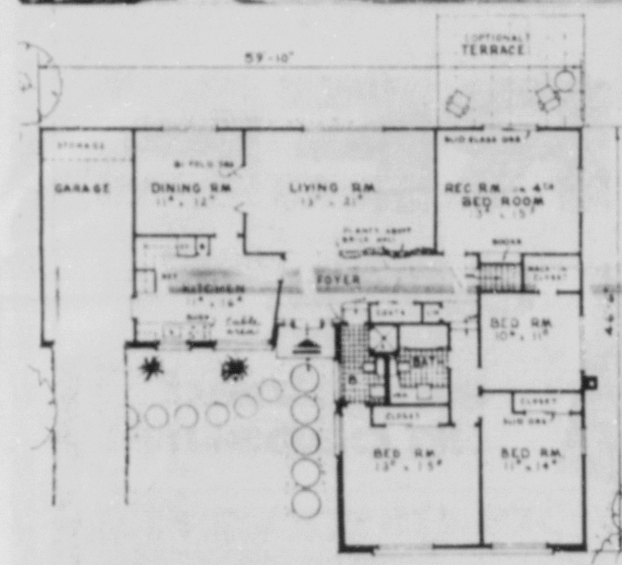

Wrong. When it comes to cancer, nothing could be more wrong.

Most cancers are easier to cure when they are detected and treated early. The earlier the better. Have a yearly checkup. Even if you've never felt better in your life.

Besides giving you peace of mind it could trouble trouble. Before trouble ever gets a chance to trouble you.

It's up to you, too.

More than 2 1/2 million Burpee garden catalogue readers are going to know about a tribute to the late Sen. Everett Dirksen. The Senator Dirksen Marigold honors the man who worked for 10 years to make the marigold the Friendship Flower, the national floral emblem of the United States.

The marigold is a golden yellow one, on plants two feet tall.

Evergreen Windbreak
This is a bit late, but early winter is the time to make a windbreak to protect evergreens. Tap in stakes around the plant and stretch burlap or some other covering around the stakes.

Winter protection should not touch the plant. Leave at least six inches of space between the enclosure and the plant, or a warming sun can cause moisture accumulation and condensation damaging to leaves.

Irish juniper and pyramidal arbutus should be tied to prevent snow and ice from accumulating on branches and bending the plant out of shape. Use twine six inches to a foot apart from top to bottom.

Rhododendron, laurel, anemone, azalea, pfitzer, junipers and yew also can be tied to prevent snow and ice accumulation.

One reason why the gypsy moth spreads so rapidly in the northeast is that small larvae of the insect literally ride the wind.

Dr. David E. Leonard of the Connecticut Agricultural Experiment Station found in a study that most larvae were dispersed in late morning. They were inactive at night and in cold or rainy weather, and were not dislodged then by wind. By managing gypsy moth populations it may be possible to prevent widespread epi-

Landers Ridge Couple Visits

50 Years Ago
May 14, 1920
Blodgett - Will Lemley of Morehouse spent last Sunday in Blodgett.

This section had a heavy rainfall which was almost continuous during last Saturday night, Sunday and Sunday night. Although much water fell, it came slowly and hence did not do much damage to growing crops, except to delay the work of cultivating corn already planted or to delay the planting in fields not yet seeded.

Mrs. Sarah Elizabeth Bradley, wife of James A. Bradley and one of the earliest settlers in Sikeston, died at her home here last Saturday at the age of 63 years.

This morning the high school pupils and teachers enjoyed an outing on Little River, northwest of Sikeston.

The annual high school play will be given at the auditorium on Tuesday evening. Those in the play are: Charles Pinnell, Clara Trousdale, Foster Shepherd, Alexander Russell, Gladys Conley, Lois Robinson, Kendall Sikes, Paul Higgins, Lillian Reiss, Polly Killian, and Christine Cauthorn.

A real honest to goodness birthday party with cake and candles, everything, was enjoyed at the Boyd Scillian home, 311 Kathleen street, last Wednesday afternoon. The event of the afternoon was held in honor of Miss Madeline Schilliam, who that day celebrated her birthday by acting the role of hostess to seven little friends. Those attending were: Mary Helen Trousdale, Wanda Lee and Corlette Coomer, Pauline Shepherd, Shirley Gene Smith, Betty Ruth Limbaugh and Ruth Struwe.

Jim Buckles gave up only two hits Saturday, but a combination of walk, a hit batsman and one of those two hits eliminated the Bulldogs from the regional tourney as they lost to Bloomfield, 1-0. The game was played at Cape.

The Way to a Grid Stars Heart

ART BUCHWALD
In the Commercial Appeal
WASHINGTON - Every once in a while, I hear a story that is so heart-warming and beautiful that it makes me forget about all the terrible things I read and see on television.

This story, which is true, concerns a university football coach whom I'll call Smathers. His school, for antilibel purposes, shall be identified as the University of Sampson, somewhere in the Northwest.

Coach Smathers heard through the grapevine that there was a fantastic high school runningback in the state, and he was determined at all costs to recruit him.

Checking around, he discovered that his player was living with his mother, a divorcee. He also discovered that recruiters from all over the nation had been to see the boy. The athletic scholarship competition was fierce.

Smathers decided the key to getting his back was the mother. He called on the lady in his best suit and tie and brought in his hand a bouquet of beautiful roses.

The mother, an attractive lady, was impressed. But Smathers had no intention of rushing her into a decision. He indicated on his first visit that all he wanted was for her to know how much he admired her son, and he was only concerned with the boy's welfare.

The next evening, Smathers invited the mother to dinner in a cozy candlelit Holiday Inn. As he looked across the table into the mother's eyes, Smathers started to tell her of the glories of Sampson.

It was, he said, the oldest university in the state. The alumni controlled all the professions and businesses. It had a beautiful campus, with skiing in the winter only 15 miles away. There were new dorms and a new student union.

A gleam came into the mother's eyes as he described the school. The next night, Smathers took the mother dancing. As they winged over the floor he told her of the diverse and exciting social life at the University of Sampson.

Finally, on the third date, Smathers took the mother for a ride up in the hills. As they kissed tenderly he vowed to her that no matter what her son's decision, he would always remember that night.

After Smathers dropped the mother off at her house, he started the 5000-mile drive back, knowing in his heart there was absolutely no more he could do to recruit the back of his dreams.

A week later, a letter arrived from the mother. Smathers opened it nervously and started to read "... so Richard has decided to go to the University of Minnesota, but you were so persuasive that I have decided to enroll as a graduate student at the University of Sampson... love, love, love."

Sales Tax Approved

3y THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Voters in three Missouri cities passed city sales taxes Tuesday.

In Jefferson City, a one cent city sales tax was passed by a 4,226-2,794 margin. Half-cent sales taxes were approved in Jennings and Marson Woods in St. Louis County.

The vote in Jennings was 1,666-643. At Warson Woods the tally was 410-101.

The measure in the state's capital is expected to raise about $80,000 annually. The city council promised if the tax carried, city property taxes would be lowered by 40 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

Revenue from the sales tax will be used to build new streets and increase the salaries of police and firemen.

In other results in St. Louis County:

A 12-cent school tax increase passed in the Brentwood School District by a vote of 873-599. Only a simple majority was needed for approval.

"I am White, Middle Class Protestant but not Superior or Inferior"

J. Lester McGee, D.D., Centenary United Methodist Church
Saint Louis, Missouri

There came a time when the Apostle Paul got fed up with the childish petulance, the power struggle, the lack of love, and the false pride exhibited by some of the leaders of his day. So he presented his credentials as a Hebrew, as a Roman citizen, as a Christian, as a man who had been beaten, imprisoned, shipwrecked, stoned and persecuted for his faith. You see, Paul got tired of being misrepresented and he spoke out. My friends, there are times when all people need to speak out in all fairness to themselves.

A current swear word, a favorite among impatient social reformers is the word "wasp" - w-a-s-p. The initials stand for WHITE ANGLO-SAXON PROTESTANT. They are designed to sum up everything evil in our society. But most of us believe "wasp" belongs to the other epithets and invectives in our language, like "Dago," "Nigger," "Wop," "Coon," "Spick," "Whitie," "fuz," and "pigs." Such words do not reflect the vocabulary of a mature society.

To paraphrase Paul, he said, "Since others are boasting and criticizing in turn we are called upon to present our credentials as well." So on this 452nd anniversary of Reformation Sunday I should like to present some credentials.

Most of us here today are white. I am white, but, my friends, I am no more responsible for my whiteness than Chairman MAO is responsible for his yellowness, or Shastri for his brownness, or Bob Gibson for his blackness. I cannot be blamed for the color of my skin but others do develop attitudes toward me because of my color, and it is happening around the world, creating more tension, more furor, more hate, more hostility than anything since the dawn of history.

In an interview before his death, Malcolm X said, "I've never seen a sincere white man. White people are born devils by nature." Well, this is simply the logic of the Klu Klux Klan turned inside out. Whatever the color involved it is a diseased kind of logic. It has been said that you don't build up yourself by running down another, and neither do you build up another by running down yourself.

In recent years all ethnic and color groups have been too apologetic for what they are and cannot change. For example, too many white men have been so sympathetic with the black man's desire to lift himself, or at least with the black man's effort to tell himself that black is beautiful and that he is as good as any white man who ever lived, that they have almost psychologically made themselves repentant that they are white. It is time not only to stop downgrading others because they are of a different color, it is time for everyone of us of any and all colors to stop negating ourselves and apologizing for the pigmentation or lack of pigmentation of our skin. There is not a thing about this condition that we can change. God made us the way we are and we ought to thank Him for it. Therefore, we don't need to offer excuses to any man for our complexion.

The white man is a human being with all the conflicts of his humanity. Yet because of his position in history the white man has been made responsible for much that is deplorable in our society. For example, colonialism with its lofty claims of bearing the white man's burden, and of sharing the benefits of education and economic advantages with the so-called backward peoples of the world, was certainly guilty of imposing an alien culture upon unwilling and unknowing persons in Africa and Asia. Call it whatever you will, colonialism, whatever the motives, whatever the intentions amounted to continental theft. The white man sowed to the wind and today in international politics is reaping the whirlwind.

Also, human slavery existed long before it came to our shores in 1619. It had been a part of every primitive and emerging culture. It has known no special race or climate. Yet African tribal leaders cooperated with slave runners in subjugating hundreds of thousands of native Africans in developing the American institution of slavery. True, the initiative and rationale came from the white West, but, my friends, the economic advantages fell to the tribal slave runners and the ship owners as well as the white Southern planters. . . don't see how any one can blame the white race exclusively for slavery when almost as many black people gained advantages from it as white people.

Yet, there is no point in ducking the charges. Certain white men were responsible for colonialism. They were also responsible for the slave trade in the new world and for the racial attitudes that boiled over as festering sores in our time. Does this mean that all white men, living and dead, are responsible? Of course not. Does this implicate the whole white race? No more than cannibalism, head-hunting, Hottentotism and the Black Muslim movement in America implicate the entire black race. The logic applies both ways, you see.

Those who feel that Hitler's racism was a true reflection of white mentality need to remember that a white civilization rose up in arms against Hitler. And the same Germany which gave us Hitler also gave us Albert Schweitzer, who went as a missionary doctor to Africa not because of anything he had done but to help atone for the sins of his forefathers, who had helped rape that dark continent. The white race has produced far more than its share of humanitarian idealists. William Wilberforce and Lord Shaftsbury were white men. William Lloyd Garrison and Edward Everett Hale were white men. Abraham Lincoln was a white man.

But after all that has been said, we are driven to the conclusion that a race is made up of people, of individual people, and in the last analysis it is the individual who must be judged on the basis of his character and personal performance. This is what makes the idea of reparations for racial injustices of the past so ridiculous. We deserve no blame. We deserve no credit for our race. We were born into it without our asking. We ought to judge men not on the basis of the color of their skin, not on the basis of their heredity or background. We ought to judge them on the basis of their personal character and personal performance.

Now how about this middle class label? Sometime ago I read a criticism which used the term, "the over-simple, blind, pietistic, middle class mentality." Inwardly I vigorously protested. The middle class has been made a whipping boy or almost every breed of social critic. WE are told that we must understand the poor; we must understand the ghetto dweller; we must understand the hippie; we must understand the harried capitalist, the creative artist and the college student. Of course, we should But my point is that the same kind of empathy and understanding should be extended to the members of the middle class who have become objects of scorn by the minority groups.

We tend to classify people according to their group identity. If I say "Jew" or "Catholic," you think certain things. If I say "Union member," you react in a particular way. A week or so ago a speaker here in St. Louis lambasted everybody who lives in the suburbs. He said we are not interested in the war on poverty, we want to continue to exploit people who live in the inner city, we are concerned only with perpetuating our own economic power, and the status quo. But that kind of criticism is irresponsible. It is not the part of wisdom to point an accusing finger in any direction and say, "That's what the middle class is like, that's what the suburbanite is like."

Without realizing it we drift into the class consciousness of Marxism. To Karl Marx the bourgeoisie, the middle class, was all bad. The proletariat, the working class, was all good. You can see how fallacious that logic

If You Were the Judge

Beaned Ballplayer Not Covered

By Jack Strauss, L.L.B.

Peter was a country boy who could hit a baseball a country mile. Parlaying this talent into a college scholarship, Peter was also given a job on campus so that he could attend games and practices seasons without having to worry about having to meet his living expenses.

As fate would have it, however, Peter got "beaned" during the first game he played in. And, if you think there is too much bawl in baseball, you should have heard the college officials complain when Peter demanded a Workman's Compensation award naming the college as his employer.

"It's nonsense," ranted the college officials. "He wasn't hurt while working. He was injured while playing baseball." "Ah! But playing baseball was my employment," was Peter's answer. "If I didn't play, I wouldn't have been given the scholarship or the job. Playing baseball and the job were interrelated and being injured while doing either entitled me to a Workman's Compensation award."

The dispute ended up in court. IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you give the hard-hitting ballplayer a Workman's Compensation award for his injured head?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that in order to be entitled to benefits under the Workman's Compensation Law, there must be a contract of employment. In this case, noted the judge, while Peter was given a job on campus, there was insufficient evidence to establish that the duration of the job was contingent upon his engaging in athletics. He was not hired to play baseball. The campus job was given to him simply to make it easier for him to attend games and practices. (Based upon 1957 Colorado Supreme Court Decision) is. It divides us into opposing groups—we are good or bad depending upon what class we are in. Classes, like races, are made up of individuals, some good, some bad, and they all need to be understood. The most slowly person I know, the "oneriest" person I know could be a negro. He could be a white person; he could be rich; he could be poor. I must not judge him one way or the other on the basis of his so-called class. I should judge him by his personal character and his personal performance.

Now what about this

Protestant ethic? Race, class, religion, all lend themselves to name-calling and oversimplification. When I was a child relations between Catholics and Protestants were almost as bad in the community in which I grew up as they are in Northern Ireland today. I can remember when we Protestant children fell out with the Catholic children we called them "Cat-lickers." They in turn called us "Pot-lickers." But all that has changed. One of our Catholic editors was complaining the other day about the difficulty of keeping abreast of the changes in emphasis. He said, "When I started editing thirty years ago the rule was to praise the Bishops and criticize the Protestants. Now it is to praise the Protestants and criticize the Bishops."

Once we Protestants were called HERETICS. We were headed for hell, we couldn't get into Heaven because we weren't in THE Church. Now we are more dignified—we are the SEPARATED BRETHREN on our way to a return to Rome. Many ecumenical leaders insist that we discontinue the word Protestant. They feel it is too negative in spirit. One specialist in ecumenical theology states that Christendom has but three subdivisions - Roman Catholic, Orthodox Catholic, and Evangelical Catholic, and in this latter group is where we belong and he shudders when he is called a Protestant.

Now I do not react that way at all. I know there are those who would blame Protestants and Protestants only for all the injustices to Negroes and all the hypocrites of our surfeited and superficial society. I do not accept such negations. Rather, I choose to stand in the Protestant Reformation tradition and lift up the positive issues which it brought to all men. And if you will etymologically trace the word "Protestant" to its root you will discover it has as many positive definitions as negative definitions. The principal positive issues it brought to men are: justification by faith alone, the authority of the Scriptures in our own convictions, and the high principle that God alone is the Lord of conscience.

I remember one of the stories told when I was a child. They told of two men, Catholic and Protestant, who were moonshining back in the hills. They were getting rich. Of course the "revenuers" were hot after them, but hadn't caught them yet. One evening the Catholic said to his Protestant co-worker, "I won't be here tomorrow. I've got to go to Confession." The Protestant got a little worried. If his Catholic friend told the priest they were moonshining the priest might pass the word along to the Revenuers. He said to his Catholic friend, "You aren't going up there and tell that priest we are out here moonshining, are you?" "Oh, no," he said, "that's none of my damn business."

You may have heard of the parochial school girl who went to Confession one Saturday and came home annoyed because she had had to wait so long. "The chu ' ought to get more efficient," she told her mother. "They should have a fast line for people with six sins or less."

Protestants say that all lines to Heaven are open. Any person can be his own priest and merely dial Heaven through his own confession. That's the positive side of Protestantism. Every person is his own priest, and when he dials Heaven and confesses his sins, few or many, six or more, he will receive forgiveness and pardon.

My friends, I am white; I am middle class; I am Protestant. This is the world where I find myself through no merits or through no fault of my own. I feel it is a good world and I am profoundly grateful for it and I don't appreciate the Eldridge Cleavers, the Rap Browns, and the Stokely Carmichaels, the James Formans, and the Ocie Pastards, and all the other black militants who criticize me because I am white, who downgrade me because I am middle class, and who call me a racist because I am Protestant. I don't appreciate it, just as they would not appreciate my calling them the opposites, whatever the opposites are.

I was born white; I was born middle class, but I can tell you, as most other middle class people my age will tell you, that even though I was born middle class I know what poverty is. During the Depression there wasn't much of a middle class. We were all poverty-stricken. I know what poverty is. I never owned a bicycle as a child or youth. I never owned a pair of skates. When I joined the Boy Scouts they had to waive the fifty cents initiation fee because I didn't have it. The only piece of Boy Scout uniform I had was an old army hat someone gave me, and an old army shirt on which my mother embroidered the letters "Boy Scouts of America." Mother was a widow. She worked for $16 a week or less and made a living for us. I know what poverty is. But, thank God, my situation has somewhat improved, and I can at last claim to be middle class again.
